The President's Triumph.

Any policy is entitled to be judged by its results; and by that test the President's Mexican policy is splendidly vindicated. A vagrant war item records that one Victoriano Huerta is marooned in London, presumably awaiting a chance to get into Spain. Little noticed amid bigger distractions, the Constitutionalists took peaceful possessions of the Mexican capital.

The future, perhaps, is anybody's guess; but Huerta is out, and a Government that has some show to restore settled conditions is in, and only a few American lives have been lost. The President and the Secretary of State were rather lonesome in adhering to the policy that has issued in this bloodless fashion; but when they look across at Europe they are entitled to deep satisfaction.

Cured by Suggestion.

Mental healing has long been practiced, but Dr. Berillion, of Paris, asserts that psychotherapia is the medicene of the future. He does not put his patients into an hypnotic trance, but places them in an environment which creates the appetite for sleep and invites them to repose on a bed and think of nothing. Then he leaves them. They gradually succumbs to the tick-tack of a metronome.

When the patient is in an hypnotic slumber, if its desired that he should be cured of excessive indulgence in alcohol, the psychotherapist suggests to him that he cannot raise a glass of absinthe to his lips, and repeats the suggestion until the prohibition is so engraved on his brain that if he would he could not do

Dr. Berillion is frequently consulted by those who wish to be cured of unhappy love passion. Through hypnotism they obtain their release.

Memoirs of Napoleon In Three Volumes

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual evewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes. Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.

A Healthy Sign.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, the influential Republican paper in Philadelphia, repudiates the candidacy of Boies Penrose for re-election to the Senate, and has declared in favor of the election of Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic nominee.

Mr. Palmer is a credit to American public life, and there ought not to be any question about his election to the Senate. He has made his record and achieved his reputation on the broad stage of the nation's public life. Every State in the union is interested in the contest this able public servant is making for election to the Senate. The Public Ledger said, among other things, in its editorial to-day:

"A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator, is a man of high character and fine ability. While he espouses economic policies to which the Public Ledger does not subscribe, which it believes are not most conducive to the industrial interests of the State, yet he possesses many qualities which are the antitheses of the offensive political ethics represented in Senator Penrsoe.

"The present is the time when Penroseism and the corrupt political machine of which he is the incarnation should be resolutely smashed, because then the hope of a regenerated and reinspired Republican party will become an exigent fact."

Dairy Wisdom.

The pure bred cow carries a great possibility of reproduction of the qualities of her ancestors. In her the power of heredity predominates because she is bred for that particular line. Everyone who is interested in dairying is not necessarily a dairyman.

The silo and dairying always go together. The silo when rightly used, will help to make the cows more profitable.

ESKIMO WHALE DANCE.

When Arctic Natives Feast and Pici Their Life Mates.

A very primitive custom of the natives of the Bering and arctic coasts of Siberia, a custom that has come down from generations of savage ancestors, is the annual celebration of the whale dance, when the Eskimos select their wives

When the sun moves southward at the end of the short summer season and the ice closes up the northern seas the whales come down to open water. Then, in celebration of the season's catch, the ice dwellers assemble for the whale dance, which lasts twenty-one days.

The great dance circle is prepared, and in the center the dancers, both male and female, perform the most savage of evolutions and motions to the accompaniment of rhythmless beating of the tomtoms and weird chanting. The dance songs tell of the prowess of the hunters and of the history of the tribe. The movements of the women are surprisingly graceful, and they mean to show in their dance that, as daughters of a great people, they are possessed of all the qualities such women should have The men execute pantomimic scenes of the hunt and go through all the motions of the kill. They spear the ice bear, slay the walrus and seal and finally, with extraordinary contortions, vanquish the mighty whale.

During the last days of the feast. when the time arrives for the selection of husbands and wives, the man performs his mate dance before the waman he has picked out. In pantomime he promises to provide her generously with the fruit of the hunt, both food and fur. If she is pleased with him she walks out and dances her acceptance and shows how she will look after the igloo. When they have danced before each other they are married after the custom of the tribe, and he leads her off to his wairus nide

During the dance they feast on whale. The skin of the baleen whale is about an inch thick and looks like rubber. The solid blubber between it and the true flesh is usually about fourteen inches thick. The black skin and the blubber, the latter cut to the thickness of the former, is called mostus and is considered a great delicacy. It is eaten raw and, although it sounds repulsive to the civilized ear, is most palatable. It has a flavor something like that of chestnuts .- Youth's Com-

Prime Numbers.

It might appear at first that every number can be divided by some number besides itself and one; but many numbers cannot, and if they cannot they are known as prime numbers. Of all the numbers having a value of less than 1,000, there are 169 that are prime. Of these twenty-six are smaller than 100, twenty-one appear between 100 and 200, sixteen between 200 and 300, sixteen between 300 and 401 seventeen between 400 and 560, tonteen between 500 and 600, sixteen between 600 and 700, fourteen between 700 and 800, tifteen between 800 and 900 and fourteen between 900 and 1,000.

His Vacation.

A woman had a negro cleaning the yard for her. His wife had been dead for several years. So his employer seized a favorable moment and proceeded to sound him.

"John," she said, "you're a good, steady man. Lots of women would be glad to have you. Why don't you get a wife?"

John leaned on his rake and scratch-. ed his head reflectively. "Well, I tell you." he replied. "You know I was married seven years, an'

Cordova is full of fun, says C. Bogue Luffmann in his "Quiet Days In Spain." and in the leisurely pace of life there the observer has time to see and appreciate all of it.

In the market one day a small boy with a big apron and a pompous manner was offering half of a small kid to a woman for a peseta. She objected that it was very tiny, and he fairly smothered her with: "Woman! Do you want half a bull for a tenpence?"

Which?

Is woman more interesting than man, or the reverse? Man varies more. He has more genius in exceptional individuals, and less of genius-like insight in the average person. He completes; woman endures. He builds externally, she at home. He fights; she preserves. Our worthless opinion is that men are more interesting than women, but that woman is more interesting than man .-Harper's Weekly.

Attorney General James Garnett stopped over in Louisville yesterday on his return to Frankfort from Western Kentucky, he having made campaign speeches Monday at Morganfield and Sturgis, Union county. He said he found the Democrats down there thoroughly united and enthusiastic for party success in November. Gen. Garnett, when asked about his intentions with regard to the gubernatorial nomination next year, with which his name has often been connected, said that it was too early yet to commit himself and that the present contest should be gotten out of the way first. He admitted that he was pursuing a policy of "watchful waiting" and he left the impression that when the race is made up the Attorney General would be a most likely starter.-W. S. K. in Louisville Times the 7th.

Eighteen days until the November election. In order to get out a full vote for the Democratic ticket it is necessary for every party man to become busy, and talk election from now until it is over. Judge Hurt and the entire ticket should poll a very large vote, but in order to bring about that result, it is important that every friend do his part in getting supporters to the polls. If you know a voter who sometimes remains at home in important contests, urge him to come out Tuesday, the 3d of November.

Curious Coins.

One of the most curious coins in the world is the Yap dollar. It is used in the island of Yap, one of the Caroline Islands, in the South Pacific. It is not coined as we understand the meaning of the word, but instead is simply quarried. As to weight, it is probably the heaviest dollar in the world, as each one is a litthe more than two feet in diameter, and tips the scales at a trifle more than 75 pounds.

On this island are tribes whose chiefs have the monopoly on this strange money; their great pride is in the display of their wealth, so that every little while they send their slaves to quarry a few more dollars. These are strung on poles in front of their huts, and there is always excitement when a report comes in that one chief has more wealth "in sight" than his most bitter rival.

"Do you think," asked a woman the other day, "bald-headed men or men with hair make the best husbands?" This somewhat startling question, at first appearing foolish, provoked serious thought and valuable discussion. Giving her own experince, the woman said: "Some men I know who have heavy heads of hair are very vain and conceited. One especially, I remember who had Keep your Stomach and Liver Healthy a fine head of curly hair, in he was false and as full of conceit as a peacock. My father, twenties; I have heard my mother say he wore a wig for a time. That I don't remember, but I Co. know he was one of the best husbands and fathers that wife or child could wish. When I meet with one such as he I shall have reached the height of my ambition.

When Cost is High.

In these days when the head of the family is fretting because of the high cost of the necessities of life, the following which comes from Sedalia, Missouri, will be of interest:

A bill of Brandt & Bro., grocers, dated July 3, 1869, was found today by Peter Brandt, and is of unusual interest because of the recent increase in the prices of foodstuffs. In July, 1869, these charges were made:

Peck of potatoes. 40 cents; five pounds of sugar, $1.00; two pound of rice, 30 cents; pound raisins, 35 cents; four dozen eggs, 80 cents; two glasses of jelly, 70 cents; three and one-quarter of green apples, 20 cents; half body of her pet dog gallon of green peas, 25 cents; pound of lard, 25 cents; pound men with less fatigue because of butter, 30 cents; half dozen their throats are smaller and ears of corn, 10 cents; 6 bars of they tax the lungs and vocal soap, 60 cents; pound of starch, cords less. 15 cents; bottle of bluing, 10 cents; bottle extract of lemon, appointed to train the High 25 cents; five chickens, $1.15; School pupils in Minnesota to one ham, $2.60; box of lye, 30 teach in the rural schools of the Man-Eating Fish.

Theodore Roosevelt tells some wonderful stories about his recent South American trip.

During his recent lecture, at a meeting of the Royal Geographical society, he related that he came across one kind of fish no larger than a trout, that bit off one of his party's little toes, took a piece out of another man's leg and the tips off two dogs tailsa fitting companion, apparently, to the fish that went bird-nesting, drove the mother bird away and was found wagging its tail over the edge of the nest while gobbling up the eggs.

Mr. Roosevelt also mentioned another fish-a nine-foot catfishwhich was found with a monkey inside it. The fish, it appears, had jumped and caught the monkey when it had climbed down a branch to drink. Very extraordinary, too, is a horrible deep-sea angler fish, exhibited at the Royal society recently. The mouth of this fish is so large UK. and its stomach so distensive, that it can swallow other fish tunately, it lives several hundred fathoms below the surface of the water. It hangs over its snout a line and bait that shine like a glow-worm and attract many inquisitive fish.

A vigorous Stomach, perfect workwhich he took much pride, but ing Liver and regular acting Bowels is guaranteed if you will use Dr. King's New Life Pills. The Call of the Farm.

There never was a time in the history of our country when agriculture was as inviting as it is today, when brains and brawn would bring as satisfactory results from the farm.

With the trades and professions in cities greatly overcrowded, the farm becomes more and more the bright and beckoning star of hope to millions of young

Sad killing.

A shadow of gloom was cast over Horse Cave last evening about 5 o'clock when Jessie Jordon, twelve-year-old daughter of Mrs. D. Spences, was accidentally killed by the discharge of a single barrel shot gun in the hands of Marshall Eubank, the seveny-ear-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Eubank, while playing in the residence of Mr. Eubank, on Water street, in Horse

The two little children, together with a sister of the Eubank boy, were playing war in the house, where the Jordan child had come from her home near town to stay for the fair, and the boy, unaware of the gun being loaded, pointed it at the little victim in play, the entire load taking effect in the front part of the neck. The little girl's mother was in an adjoining room and hearing the shot ran to the child and caught her in her arms, the child dying instantly.

Mr. Eubank stated that the gun was not usually loaded but that he loaded it a few nights ago when the town was visited by robbers and failed to unload

Fruit Waste to be Saved.

Fruit growers of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana will meet in Spokane on Nov., 19 for the purpose of establishing a cooperative organization for the utilization of waste fruits of the Pacific Northwest, by manufacturing by-products on a large scale. Those who are directing the proliminary work of the proposed organization are proceeding along two lines.

First, to promote the healthy growth of canning, evaporating and otherwise treating fruits that ordinarily are wasted, and second, to assist in opening markets for such products. Only about 60 per cent., of the fruit crop of the northwest marketed, the remaining 40 per cent., being wasted.

The Panama canal has reduced the rate on dried fruit to the Atlantic seaboard from 85 to 32 cents and on canned fruit from $1 to 40 cents per hundred. This will lend great impetus to the byproduct business.

Girls Save Children.

Not long ago there was an explosion in a tailor shop located on the first floor of a Boston tenement house. The house was set on fire, and two girls, Mary Doherty and Anna McGahan, proved themselves heroines by saving the lives of several children and their frightened mothers. Mary Doherty was visiting the mother of a family of six, with rooms on the second floor. At the sound of the explosion, the mother picked up the two younger children and started down the stairs, calling to the others to follow her. But the little ones were too frightened to obey, and it was left to Mary to marshal them down the stairs in good order.

Anna McGahan had dropped in to spend the afternoon with her aunt, who has four little folks, living on the fourth floor of the building. By the time they disto leave by the door, and Anna started her four cousins to the to pick up a family of nine children with their frightened mother. By the time they reached the roof, the smoking was blinding, but the girl heroine kept her head and got all her charges safely across to the roof of the next building, the owner of which was waiting to show them the way down.

To Get Good Seed Corn.

There are a few rules following by which R. A. Moore, Secretary of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Association, in the selection of seed corn.

First.-Allow the ears to mature well on the stalk.

Second.—Select the ears from promising stalks that are leafy. of medium size and which carry one good ear attached about three feet from the ground.

Third.-Select only well formen ears with plump, deep kernels and good tips and buts.

Fourth.—Avoid ears with long or short shanks or those attacked to poorly formed stalks.

When taken from the stalk corn usually concains from 20 to President Wilson's appeal to 30 per cent. of water. The most convenient way of ridding the corn of this excessive moisture is by the use of artificial heat, and

London, Oct. 8, (11:30, a. m.)—A dispatch to the Exchange for Holland. Telegraph Company from Ostend, filed Tuesday. but delayed in ransmission, says:

"Fierce fighting has taken place for two day's around Lille, where French troops came into contact with the enemy, who susrained heavy losses. German batteries fired on the station, the prefecture and other buildings. The masterpieces in the museum have already been removed to a place of safety.

"In the fierce fighting the Germans lost more than 2,000 men, and up to this morning they had not succeeded in occupying the town of Lille."

London, Oct. 8, (4:08, a. m.).—The Mail's Ostend corespondent telegraphs that on Tuesday German troops were being transferred through Belgium to strengthen the attack on the Allie's left. The tide of battle, says the correspondent, rolls fiercely in from Arms to Lens and beyond.

Bouai, which was attacked by the Germans fifteen days ago. was captured on Thursday last. All small villages in the vicinity, were utterly destroyed.

On the Battle Front, Oct. 7, (vie Paris, Oct. 8, 12:11, a. m.)-The fiercest fighting which has marked the conflict in the French theater of war has taken place since Monday on the western wing of the allied armies. New forces of German cavalry and infantry which have appeared in front of the Allies' lines have used every and is now starting to force them to retreat from the River Duna. resource and every effort to attain success. They have thrown jec. themselves again and again at the French and British, who have brought equally strong bodies of troops forward to oppose them.

The battle is no longer one of machine-like strategy of two armies, but a contest centering in the powers of endurance of two bodies of human beings, each as determined as the other not to give up the struggle before victory is achieved. Here and there the lines have faltered one way or the other under the shock, but again have tightened up and become firm.

At one point the German cavalry even succeeded in breaking persons. The retirement of the Allies was, however, fully in accordance with the plans of the general staff. The breach in the line was at an acute angle and the Germans were placed in a very precarious position from which they were ousted with great loss in the day. All through last night and to-day the fight proceeded, continuing until this evening, when a period of calm set in.

Never perhaps, in military annels have so many men come to close grips with cold steel and kept up the struggle so long. On both sides many remarkable instances have been recorded of daring bravery, and the French and British troops, who themselves showed unparalled coolness and courage, without exception, when the fury of the battle died down expressed admiration for the fearlessness of their German opponents.

"One company of French infantry started the war with 190 men from Antwerp in Holland. and a full complement of officers. Since then it has received drafts bringing the total up to 324. An official announcement made known to-day for the first time the vast numbers of the German forces fighting against the Allies in Belgium and France. They are composed of no fewer than twenty-three army corps of the active German army, eighteen army corps of reserves, several divisions of the landwehr and large detachments of the landsturm. Under normal conditions this numher of units make a grand total of nearly 2,000,000 men. From this total, hower, losses must be deducted. ABANDONED FLAG FOUND.

In an abandoned German trench opposite the English line, unvisited since September 15, was found to-day a German regimental flag beneath a great heap of dead. The emblem was taken to the headquarters of the British Field Marshal, Sir John French.

It is generally expected that to morrow (Thursday,) the fighting on the western wing will have extended to Belgian soil, as the cavalry of both armies are operating with inscredible swiftness.
